The Suzuki Aerio was debuted by the company in 2001. It was sold throughout Europe, Asia, Australia, and the version was sold in the United States. Aerio owners should refer to the Suzuki Aerio maintenance manual for information on keeping their car running. Aerio was also known as Liana or life in the new century in some parts of the world. It was offered as a 5-door hatchback and as a 4-door sedan. These vehicles were built with 16 valves straight 4 engines. Models produced for the United States received a slightly larger and more powerful engine. The cars came with a 5-speed manual transmission in standard, with a 4-speed automatic as an option. The automatic option included all four wheels with a package. Cars produced for the United States market have been offered in two different trim levels for each generation. In 2004, the engine was upgraded to more powerful. In 2005, the interior was redesigned and restyled. And anti-lock brakes became standard in 2006. In European markets, this car was called Liana. The main purpose of the car was to be an affordable small car for families. Suzuki has added minor upgrades to European models, and has added a diesel engine option. In addition to engine updates, the European model has received very few updates in its style. Suzuki Liana was used in the automotive segment of the show Star Top Gear in the car at a reasonable price. Celebrity guests will take turns driving a car weekly on the track and trying to set a record. For 3 years Liana was used on the show, he spent very well. He drove 1,600 laps, tires and brakes had to be changed 100 times and had 6 new clutches. In 2001, Suzuki developed a special edition of Liana to be able to be used for mountain racing. The car received a specially designed space frame. Unfortunately, the driver was forced to retire the car with 1 mile left to the finish line. Obviously, Suzuki Aerio was a serious contender in the automotive market all over the world. It was supposed to be an affordable, small, family-owned car, and the company achieved that goal. If you happen to own a Suzuki Aerio, it's worth having a Suzuki Aerio workshop guide in your garage to help you keep yours. The $16.99 $0.00 Selected Suzuki Workshop Guide will cover detailed instructions on work, mechanical and electrical malfunctions, technical changes, posting charts, maintenance manuals, technical bulletins and more. The workshop guide is the same as used by professional mechanics and therefore literally thousands of pages of information and diagrams describing almost every part and procedure for your Suzuki car. Your repair guide includes all the following and more: Technical DataEngineGearboxFront / Rear AxleBrakesSteeringSuspension - WheelsRepair Instructions HVACEngine OverhaulWiring Charts Dry View ChartsPlus More...
